United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

We support the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, with particular reference in this instance to Article 19 'Living independently and being included in the community, which states:

'Parties to this Convention recognize the equal right of all persons with disabilities to live in the community, with choices equal to others, and shall take effective and appropriate measures to facilitate full enjoyment by persons with disabilities of this right and their full inclusion and participation in the community, including by ensuring that:

- Persons with disabilities have the opportunity to choose their place of residence and where and with whom they live on an equal basis with others and are not obliged to live in a particular living arrangement;
- Persons with disabilities have access to a range of in-home, residential and other community support services, including personal assistance necessary to support living and inclusion in the community, and to prevent isolation or segregation from the community;
- Community services and facilities for the general population are available on an equal basis to persons with disabilities and are responsive to their needs.'

Introduction

This publication has been designed to provide information for students who experience disability, together with their families/whānau, teachers, friends and others, in planning for life beyond the classroom. This publication also provides a list of various support services available in the Whanganui, Manawatu, Tararua, Horowhenua and Kāpiti areas that can potentially assist students during and after their transition from school. Designed to help plan and prepare students to think about their options for the future, this publication can also be used as a resource for the supports and professionals within the disability sector associated with students.

Throughout the booklet, the transition process is defined as the process where young people who experience disability plan for life beyond the parameters of school and explore options they may like to pursue. It can be an exciting and challenging time and often involves making decisions and choices about increasing their independence as a young adult. Some options to think about may include:

- moving into further education or employment
- budgeting advice and attaining benefits
- pursuing different living arrangements
- maintaining relationships and developing new ones
- continuing with sporting and leisure activities
- accessing and connecting with supports in the wider community

This booklet begins with some basic information about the transition process from school, followed by a Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) section and finally a directory of regional services available. We have tried to include as many services as possible, however, some may have been missed, some services may have begun after this booklet was published and some may have changed the way they operate. In this sense there will always be the potential for it to be updated. If you have any feedback that will improve any part of this booklet, or update any of its information, please contact Ministry of Education. Feedback should be directed to the District Manager.

Definitions

Below is a list of definitions and abbreviations you will encounter in this booklet and in services you may wish to use.

Throughout this resource the term 'Disability' has been used as it is defined in the New Zealand Disability Strategy, "Disability is not something individuals have. What individuals have are impairments. They may be physical, sensory, neurological, psychiatric, intellectual or other impairments. Disability is the process which happens when one group of people create barriers by designing a world only for their way of living, taking no account of the impairments other people have" (NZDS, 2001:7).

The term 'Transition' (from school) also refers to the process of planning to explore options for life beyond school and implementing that plan.

Enabling Good Lives Principles

The Enabling Good Lives principles have grown from families and individuals desire to have more choice, flexibility and control over the supports they receive and the lives they lead. Enabling Good Lives includes a commitment from MOH, MSD and MOE to work together to consider flexible use of existing funding and contracts to support people to have a good life.

The Enabling Good Lives Leadership group is looking at ways to improve the quality of life for people who experience disability and look at the way services are delivered.

The Enabling Good Lives Principles are:

- Self Determination
Disabled people are in control of their lives.
- Beginning Early
Invest early in whānau to support them to be aspirational for their disabled child, to build community and natural supports and to support disabled children to become independent.
- Person-centred
Disabled people have supports that are tailored to their individual needs and goals, and that take a whole life approach.
- Ordinary Life Outcomes
Disabled people are supported to live an everyday life in everyday places; and are regarded as citizens with opportunities for learning, employment, having a home and family, and social participations – like others at similar stages of life.
- Mainstream First
Disabled people are supported to access mainstream services before specialist disability services.
- Mana Enhancing
The abilities and contributions of disabled people and their whānau are recognised and respected.

Enabling Good Lives Principles Continued ...

- Easy to Use
Disabled people have supports that are simple to use and flexible.
- Relationship Building
Relationships between disabled people, their whānau and community are built and strengthened.
- Community Building
Engage and support communities to be more welcoming and inclusive of disabled people – create accessible communities.

A good life for you will look different to somebody else's. It needs to reflect the things that are important to you.

What is Transition?

Transition process

Simply put, transition from school is a process of planning for what you as a young person will do when you leave the schooling system and then implement a plan. It is based on the principles of inclusion, community participation and civil rights.

Traditionally, one of the areas people who have experienced disability found most difficult whilst transitioning, was into employment. However, there are supported employment support services that can help and are primarily engaged in the process.

With more of a community focus, the Ministry of Social Development (MSD) is able to assist people who are recipients of the Ongoing Resourcing Scheme (ORS). The MSD will fund 'high' and 'very high' ORS verified students in their last year of schooling to participate in transition services.

However, transition is about you and not just employment. For a successful transition you need to consider things such as: how do you participate in your community, where will you live, transport, or if you'd like to further your education.

You may also want to think about how you might continue to develop your social networks and relationships, attain economic independence, or develop autonomy and interdependence.

The National Administrative Guidelines (NAGs) require that schools identify and make provision for students likely to experience barriers in making a successful transition from school. As a result, most schools that support students with an experience of disability have an organised process for transition.

In order for a transition from school to work, there needs to be a strong partnership between the school, family/whānau, and post-school providers. Post-school providers are organisations such as tertiary education providers, supported employment services, supported living agencies and vocational/day activity providers. These partners will need on-going information sharing to remain up-to-date with the options available for you and your family/whānau/care givers. This resource is part of that information sharing.

You should start planning the 'where to' and 'goals' part of the process at least 2–3 years before you leave, addressing this at your Individual Education Plan (IEP). A suggested age to start thinking about transition is 14 years old, in order to prepare yourself as much as possible.

If you can start planning as early as 14 years old, then it doesn't need to take up much time – it can just be thinking about what you might like to do and trying a few things out, such as joining clubs or getting an after-school job or work experience.

When should I start to think about leaving school?

If you experience disabilities within the last two years of secondary school then an Individual Education Plan (IEP) should focus on 'transition out of school' needs such as money handling and budgeting, self-help skills, use of transport options, work experience, community skills, social and recreational pursuits and developing links with adult community services.

If you are a 'very high' ORS funded, aged between 16 years to 21 years and in your final years at school, you may qualify for 'individual funding' from MSD for Transition to Adult Life and community based service support. Talk with your school's Transition Advisor or Counsellor for assistance in applying for this funding.

Looking at your goals and where you want to be in your future can allow you to think about what skills or learning you need to do to be as independent as possible, creating options and making decisions.

Find out through your school's Transition Advisor or Counsellor about other possible options for transition services.

Transition planning can cover anything that is important to you or that you think might need to be organised. Some of the common areas of transition are:

What things
does Transition
cover?

- employment
 - income and finances
 - housing or living arrangements
 - support needs
 - cultural support
 - further education
 - recreation and leisure
- advocacy
 - friends and relationships
 - transport or community access

If the Ministry of Education (MoE) has supplied your equipment, it would normally be returned to the school when you leave.

If you think you will need to use the equipment outside of school discuss this with your school's Transition Advisor or Counsellor or the regional MoE representative. You should also discuss the possibility of needing equipment as part of your Transition.

If you own the equipment then you take it with you.

What happens to my equipment I use at school
once I leave?

Local Secondary School Transitions Advisors' Directory

Please note some names may have changed since the printing of this publication. If a school does not have a Transition Advisor, often the school's Learning Support, Guidance Counsellor or Principal will be able to assist.

Should I leave my hometown?

The school's role in supporting students into post-school options

What are my options with Secondary Education and how can they assist me in preparing for transition to “life beyond school?”

If you are of school age and ORS verified, you have a right to attend a secondary school until the end of the year in which you turn 21 years old. Some students remain at school until this time, but others leave at a younger age. This decision is up to you and your family/whānau/caregiver.

Any secondary age student can attend their local school or school of choice, subject to zone restrictions. However, schools vary in level of specialist facilities or service provision offered.

Some schools are ‘Specialist Service Providers’. These schools have comprehensive specialised facilities with staff that offer a full range of specialist and transition services. In Palmerston North these schools are Awatapu College and Freyberg High School.

In the Whanganui Region special needs facilities are available at Wanganui High School, Wanganui City College, Wanganui Girls’ College and Cullinane College, Ruapehu College, Taihape Area School and Rangitikei College.

Some schools have smaller scale special needs facilities that meet a variety of student needs. Transition programmes will be included as a part of transition services. Smaller special needs facilities are available in Waiopēhu College, and Fielding High School. In the Kāpiti region special needs facilities are available at Kāpiti College and Paraparaumu College.

All schools will work with families and the Ministry of Education to put resources in place to meet specialist and transition needs of students with experience of disability attending the school.

What can I expect schools to provide as part of a transition service or programme?

There will be variations between schools in the type and level of transition support they offer. Ask about the following when discussing options for life beyond school:

1. What transition skills are taught through mainstream curriculum subjects?
2. What transition programmes are offered through individualised or alternative education programmes within the school environment?
3. What experiences beyond the classroom are made available to assist preparation for life beyond school, like community based experiences or work experience.
4. What planning, advice and guidance is given to facilitate links to post-school agencies, service providers and tertiary institution (e.g. training, vocational and community living.)

Support Needs

Where do I go to get funding for my support needs?

First you will need an official confirmation of the disability from a specialist health professional. If your disability is due to an accident or medical misadventure, contact Accident Compensation Corporation (ACC) for an assessment of need and help with identifying the providers who can support you.

If your specialist has confirmed that you have a long term disability that has not been caused by an accident or medical misadventure contact your local Needs Assessment and Service Coordination agency (NASC) for assessment. They will help identify the supports you may need.

For Manawatu, Taraua and Horowhenua regions the NASC is Enable, phone 0800 221411 or (06) 3535899, for the Whanganui and Rangitikei regions the NASC is Access Ability, phone 0800 300412 or (06) 348 8411; and for the Kāpiti region the NASC is Capital Support, phone 0800 353 375 or (04) 230 6400.

Possible funding for services is available for those who meet either ACC or NASC criteria. Those who do not meet NASC or ACC criteria can still contact the NASC or ACC for a list of services that can be purchased on a private basis.

For assistance with health related costs contact the Work and Income Call Centre, phone 0800 559 009.

If you are recovering from an injury and have been in hospital, talk with the hospital social worker about potential 'short term' assistance.

How do I find a specialist if I am asked for a report about my disability?

To find out the best way to get a specialist report, contact one or more of the following people:

- your GP or their practice nurse
- the hospital social worker
- your NASC service coordinator
- your ACC case manager
- Advisor from the Ministry of Education

Where can I find out about technology to help me to communicate?

Talk with your teachers at school if under an Ongoing Resourcing Scheme (ORS) to inquire about Speech Language Therapist (SLT) support.

Contact Talklink Wellington to ask whether their service may be appropriate, visit www.talklink.org.nz or phone (04) 381 4956.

You could also contact Enable on 0800 ENABLE for further information or Deaf Aotearoa if you need support with New Zealand sign language at www.deaf.co.nz.

Where can I find out more information about disabilities?

- your GP
- Enable NZ, your local Disability Information or Resource Centre.
- New Zealand Federation of Disability Information Centres phone 0800 693 342 or visit www.weka.net.nz
- IHC Library for access to their resources, phone 0800 442 442 or visit www.ihc.org.nz

- CCS Disability Action Library, phone 0800 227 2255 or email info@ccsdisabilityaction.org.nz
- local libraries and the Citizens Advice Bureau
- contact NASC or someone from a service provider agency
- District Councils have information on their websites
- District Health Boards

How do we organise respite for my carer if I have one?

Talk to NASC or ACC (dependant on which is the Funder) about what services are able to provide respite and how much you may qualify for.

Ensure that when you or your family member has been assessed for support that the service coordinator helps you to develop a plan for using the respite allocation. You can check with HealthPac on 0800 281 222 how many Carer Relief days you have left.

Where can I find carers for using my respite allocation?

Some suggestions:

- develop your network of family and friends to help assist
- think about community based activities that can be attended by you or your family member with a disability independently
- contact Student Job Search, phone 0800 757 562 or put an advertisement in the paper
- contact your local Parent to Parent organisation, visit www.parent2parent.org.nz
- contact your local tertiary education providers that have Human Service or Nursing trainees who could assist
- discuss your respite allocation with ACC Case Manager or NASC Coordinator.

Cultural Support

How can I find out about services that are specific to my culture or religion?

Talk with any providers who work with you about what cultural or religious support services they may have to offer or contact The Office of Ethnic Affairs for further information, visit www.ethnicaffairs.govt.nz.

What do I do if I need a social or language interpreter?

An interpreter is a person who explains what the meaning of words are, or translates words into your language. If you have difficulty understanding some words or situations then you may want to get an interpreter. This person may be a friend, a family member, an advocate or a professional.

You have the right to have a support person of your choosing with you at any meetings for you. Remember you do not need to go to meetings on your own. Ask the people whom you trust to be a social interpreter. You can talk with the NASC Service Coordinator about getting social support or a personal assistant and it is advisable that where possible, that you should have an interpreter independent of the organisation or your support network at meetings to ensure a neutral translation occurs.

Contact the Deaf Aotearoa if you need support with New Zealand Sign Language, www.deaf.org.nz/contact/local-offices. To contact Language Line phone 0800 656 656, for more information on Language Line visit The Office of Ethnic Affairs www.ethnicaffairs.govt.nz/story/how-language-line-works or for access to Deafblind coordinators, phone the Royal New Zealand Foundation of the Blind on 0800 243 333.

What help can I get if English is my second language?

You can access an interpreter through NTIS New Zealand Translation Services LTD, visit <http://www.ntis.co.nz> or phone 03 548 9944 or use the Language Line phone 0800 656 656. For documents that need translating into English phone 0800 872 675 or visit The Translation Service at www.dia.govt.nz/Services-Translation-Index

Māori

You can expect that your provider will exercise their powers of governance in a manner that fulfils the intent of the Treaty of Waitangi. Māori, as tangata whenua, have the right to expect that the health and education systems will support their cultural preferences, wellbeing and developmental aspirations.

The Ministry of Health released (August 2012) the action plan, 'Whāia Te Ao Mārama', and can be found on the Ministry of Health website at: www.health.govt.nz

The aim of 'Whāia Te Ao Mārama: Disability Action Plan 2012 to 2017' is to establish priority areas of action to enable Māori disabled to achieve their aspirations, and to reduce barriers that may impede Māori disabled and their whānau from gaining better outcomes.

'Whāia Te Ao Mārama' literally translated means pursuing the world of enlightenment. It is an apt title for the document, which outlines a pathway towards supporting Māori with disabilities to achieve overall wellbeing, and bringing both them and our communities into a place of shared understanding and action.

Culture is an important component of our overall wellbeing, and providing culturally specific action plans such as this recognises the diverse contexts from which we all come, and the unique responses that are required to address the needs of the Māori disabled community.

Priority 1 of the 'Whāia Te Ao Mārama' action plan articulates that:

Improved outcomes for Māori disabled

- Require providers to ensure that personal plans to support Māori disabled are culturally appropriate and specifically identify the individual's cultural needs
- Provide a range of new and innovative support options for supporting disabled people that offer Māori disabled and their whānau more personalised support arrangements and greater choice and control over the supports they use.

Income

How do I claim a benefit if I need one?

You are able to apply for a Benefit and associated allowances once you turn 16 years old. (ACC will take funding responsibility from the age of 18 years for those whose loss of earnings is due to injury. But, you need to wait until you turn 18 before you can find out if you're eligible or not.)

Talk to Work and Income (W&I) about eligibility for any Benefits, Disability Allowance and Accommodation Supplement. W&I will allocate someone to speak with you about your entitlements. Talk to this person to ensure you are getting everything you are entitled to. Discuss options for future employment support with Workbridge or Supported Employment services.

Discuss with your GP or the practice nurse about Disability Allowances. Contact W&I about accessing the Disability Allowance and if you are already receiving the maximum allowance, you may qualify for a Special Benefit.

Keep a folder for your receipts relating to disability based costs in one place.

Consider whether you could do some part-time work and discuss with W&I about how this may affect you.

Is there any other assistance with costs relating to my disability?

What if I need assistance to do this?

If you need help talking with W&I you can appoint a friend or family member who can act on your behalf, this person would be your nominated person and they will be required to complete a form before proceeding.

Your nominated person may be useful especially if you are having difficulty communicating your needs or understanding the forms or information.

Talk with your local Citizens Advice Bureau about what budget advice services are available.

If you get a job it can affect your benefit, however, working part-time will usually allow you to earn more money than being on a benefit alone. Talk to someone at W&I about your options.

If I get a job,
does it affect my benefit?

Mocha anyone?

Further Education

Who do I talk to if I want to do tertiary study?

Each Tertiary Provider has a contact person or service for people with disability. Contact the Disability Coordinators at the education facility that you are interested in going to. They will help you look at options to assist your access to their campus and can provide a range of options for support within the learning environment.

Talk to your local Workbridge office regarding training support funding. Some disability agencies, for example the Royal New Zealand Foundation of the Blind (RNZFB) have funding for specific impairments in a tertiary environment, so if you are registered with a community agency discussing your plans with them is a good idea.

What if I want to study part time?

If you want to study part time, talk with someone at Student Services at your chosen tertiary institution about your options. Studying part-time may effect an allowance you may be receiving from W&I.

Employment

Can I get a job before I leave school?

Getting a job while at school is a wonderful way to get work experience and to develop an employment history. You could start with some part-time work outside school hours. Sometimes it is also possible to negotiate a job within school hours if it is considered part of your school programme and fits with the school's policies. The best way to get a job after you finish secondary school is to have one before you leave.

How do I start to find a job?

There are many ways to find work. Many young people find their first job through family and friends. You may also consider using an employment agency or a supported employment agency.

Start looking in the papers on Wednesdays and Saturdays in the employment section. Also go online and look through the listed jobs on the Trademe and Seek websites.

For those under 21 years old, you can contact Modern Apprenticeships through Tertiary Education Commission on 0800 601 301 or visit www.modern-apprenticeships.govt.nz

Talk to someone at W&I about being a 'job seeker' and ask if they could suggest some employment or educational options. Discuss whether the employment programme PATHS (Providing Access to Health Services) may be able to help with environmental modifications at a potential work place to enable access. For a list of support agencies, please refer to the directory in this publication.

Contact Workbridge or Supported Employment services in your region for assistance to find part-time or full-time work. Discuss with them ways to conduct a job search, develop a CV and how to access funding for equipment and support if required.

There are a number of supported employment agencies who can support your move to the workforce. Go to the Association of Supported Employment in New Zealand (ASENZ) website for a list of some employment agencies.

What do supported employment agencies do?

Supported employment agencies are there to assist people with disability to find and retain employment in the community. They can help you decide: what job you want, prepare a CV, find a job, support you at job interviews, assist you in learning the job, provide on-going job support and organise job coaches if required.

Supported employment agencies can also assist you in making applications for support funds from services and sectors such as Ministry of Social Development (MSD) and Workbridge. For more information about supported employment visit www.asenz.org.nz. To find out about the MSD mainstream employment programme visit www.msd.govt.nz/what-we-can-do/disability-services/mainstream.

What do I do if I only want to work part-time?

Many jobs are by 'word-of-mouth', consider who you know and can ask or can spread the word for you. 'beat the feet' and knock on doors – in other words, go looking and remember to have a CV or something similar to leave with prospective employers. You could try looking in the newspaper, online or enrol with Student Job Search (if you qualify as a student), talk to someone at Workbridge or any employment agencies in your area.

What else is there to do if I don't get a job?

You could consider further education (see previous section), vocational training, an agency that provides daytime support, or get involved in recreational and leisure pursuits. For a list of support agencies, please refer to the directory in this publication.

Who can advise me about the kinds of jobs I might be able to do?

Talk to your teachers or career guidance counsellor at school or your key worker at Work & Income. There are also people available at Careers New Zealand able to assist with employment advice, phone 0800 222 733

Do employers have the right not to hire me just because I have a disability?

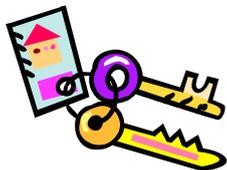

No. Under the Human Rights Act employers are not allowed to discriminate against you solely on the grounds of your disability. Some employers may wish to know if the nature of your disability may cause a health and safety risk to you or others, such as driving a fork-lift truck with epilepsy. It is a good idea to plan how you will handle any questions about your disability before you talk to employers so you know what, if anything, you want to say.

Housing and Living Arrangements

How do I find a place to rent or buy?

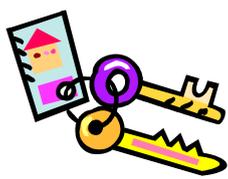

Register with local real estate agents or rental companies and they will call you when houses become available that are wheelchair friendly or meet your needs.

Note: some may charge you for this service so check with them first.

Contact Housing New Zealand Corporation (HNZ) on 0800 801 601 for support on finding a rental. They can also access specialists such as an Occupational Therapists (OT) who can look at potential housing modifications through their housing solutions service.

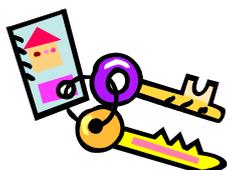

Contact HNZ, your local council, or 'community housing' for assistance or the Disabled Person's Assembly (DPA) to enquire around people who may be looking for flatmates.

Contact The Housing Advice Centre for advice about tenancies, provide rental listings and help when things go wrong in rental accommodation.

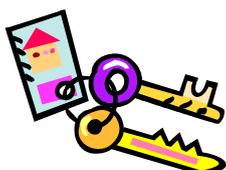

How do I make modifications to my house or flat to make it more accessible or usable for me?

Get a referral through your GP for Occupational Therapy (OT) input to support you in assessing potential homes that meet your needs. You can also contact Enable and your NASC coordinator about referral options to an OT.

How do I find support to help me live in my own place?

If you need support then you may be eligible to use a supported living service. You will need to contact your NASC or ACC coordinator, or a supported living service. For a list of support agencies, please refer to the directory in this publication.

Where do I go to get emergency housing?

- Housing New Zealand
- NASC or ACC around potential 'Short Term Residential' options suitable for the situation or need.
- Citizen Advice Bureau

Recreation and Leisure

How do I find out what things are in the community that I might want to take part in?

Visit your local Council website to see what they have in the way of activities and events.

- Wanganui District Council, www.wanganui.govt.nz
- Palmerston North City Council, www.pncc.govt.nz
- Horowhenua District Council, www.horowhenua.govt.nz
- Kāpiti Coast District Council, www.kapiticoast.govt.nz
- Rangitikei District Council, www.rangitikei.govt.nz
- Ruapehu District Council, www.ruapehu.govt.nz

You can also contact the Whanganui Disability Resources Centre (Whanganui DRC), CCS Disability Action or Options in Community Living if you are receiving a benefit and see if you meet their criteria for a community case worker to assist in finding recreational activities that suit your interests.

My access to local clubs and activities is limited due to my disability. How can I remove the barriers?

Contact the Halberg Trust Sport Opportunity Adviser at Sport Manawatu who will help link you into a sport or physical activity in your region.

The Sport Opportunity Adviser may also be able to help get funding for people under 20 years old to help cover the 'extra' costs needed to do an activity with your peers. If you are looking for daytime support, contact MSD at www.msd.govt.nz

What are some ideas to help access social activities?

- youth and church groups
- local A-Z directory
- CCS Disability Action
- Options in Community Living
- Citizens Advice Bureau
- local council for information on what is in your area
- recreation centres and holiday programmes
- cultural groups and centre or local Marae

Advocacy

Advocacy is where you are assisted by another person to say what you want or to do what you want. Usually advocacy is used when someone is unhappy about something and wishes to make a complaint or to get something changed. You can also advocate for yourself.

Who can I contact if I want an advocate?

You can use a friend, family member or other trusted person to assist you with advocacy or you can use one of the following formal advocacy services:

- Health and Disability Advocacy service phone 0800 555 050 or email advocacy@hdc.org.nz
- Citizens Advice Bureau for assistance on advocacy advice
- IHC Advocacy Service, phone 0800 442 442 or email advocacy@ihc.org.nz
- The Personal Advocacy Trust, phone (04) 385 9175 or email patrust@paradise.net.nz around advocacy for people with Intellectual Disabilities
- People First NZ Nga Tangata Tuatahi, phone 0800 20 60 70
- The Disabled Persons Assembly (DPA), phone/(TeleType) TTY (04) 801 9100
- Contact the Strengthening Families coordinator in your local area if you require support around an 'interagency approach' for children under 17 years old
- Your local Member of Parliament (MP)

What do I do if I don't like something a service provider is doing?

All services should have a complaints procedure and the service provider should inform you of this. If you do not know their complaints procedure ask the service for a copy.

Initially discuss your concern/complaint with the manager of the service and remember, you can take a support person along when you do this. If the concern/complaint is not resolved ask about the complaints procedure of that service, and it is advisable at this point to put it into writing.

If the issue is not resolved with the provider contact the funder of the service. This may be ACC, the local NASC or Ministry of Social Development (MSD).

They can assist you to look at other service options and give you advice on further action.

If you cannot resolve your issue with the service provider, contact the Health and Disability Advocacy service on 0800 555 050 for advice and assistance. You can also make a complaint about the Ministry of Health, Disability Support Services or the disability support services funded by them by calling 0800 373 664 or email on dsdcomplaints@moh.govt.nz

Who can provide long-term advocacy for me for when my parents or family aren't able to?

You can discuss this issue with your Local Citizens Advice Bureau, community law society or IHC Advocacy Service. You can also contact the Health and Disability Advocacy service on 0800 555 050 or for advocacy for people with intellectual disabilities, contact The Personal Advocacy Trust on (04) 385 9175 or email patrust@paradise.net.nz. You can also contact BIACD (Brain Injury Association Central Districts) for advocacy for people affected by brain injury, to provide resources, fact sheets and contact numbers, go to BIACD website www.brain-injury.org.nz

Ashleigh, the last of the big spenders ...

Miscellaneous

If you are having difficulty coping with your disability, talk to your school's Guidance Counsellor or with your local NASC for further options.

If I am having difficulty coping with my disability (or my child's), who can I talk to?

If you (or your child) are having difficulty dealing with change, loss or grief, phone Skylight on 0800 299 100 or visit their website www.skylight.org.nz

There are also options of talking to your service provider or the hospital's social worker. Counsellors are available in your area and listed in the Yellow Pages directory. You can also contact your GP for counselling – your first six sessions are free.

Who can I talk to if I want to find out more about my sexuality and about relationships?

If you are unable to discuss your queries with a family member or close friend you trust, contact Family Planning on (06) 355 0743 for information and support. The family/whānau coordinators at CCS Action Disability and IDEA Services can often suggest learning resources. You could also phone Relationship Services on 0800 735 283 or Youthline on 0800 37 66 33.

Where can I find help if some of my behaviours seem strange to others, or are misunderstood, or others see them as challenging?

Contact Tautoko services who can advise and support you if you have an intellectual disability on (06) 368 2611 or visit their website at www.tautoko.org.nz. If you are currently involved with IDEA Services you can be referred through to their Behavioural Support Team or contact Explore services on 0800 275 174. Your GP, service coordinator or case manager should also be able to assist or talk with you about your options. Consider discussing with your GP whether your behaviour may be linked to any mental health issues. GPs can refer you to a number of Mental Health services. The side affects of some medications can have an impact on behaviour; discuss this with your GP or Specialist.

BIACD (Brain Injury Association Central Districts) can provide information, support and also education to others affected (eg family, friends, workplaces) by brain injury and increase awareness and understanding.

If you are a parent or a full-time carer of a person with a disability, contact NASC to discuss accessing possible respite options if you consider this a need.

Work and Income will recognise an Agent, (a friend or family member), who can act on your behalf and this may be useful initially, if you are having difficulty communicating your needs.

Contact Autism New Zealand around information and support for people with Asperger's Syndrome and Autism on 0800 AUTISM or visit www.autismnz.org.nz.

Halberg Trust is a charity that works to enhance the lives of disabled people by enabling them to participate in sport. We work with families, communities, clubs and national sports organisations to open doors and remove barriers to participation. The Westpac Halberg Awards is the Trust's flagship event to honor sporting excellence and raise vital funds for our year-round disability sport work.

We also rely on the on-going contributions of our sponsors and supporters, who play a vital role in helping the Trust to achieve Sir Murray Halberg's vision: to live in a society where all New Zealanders, regardless of their ability, have the right to participate in the sport of their choice, with no exceptions.

The Mainstream Employment Programme provides a package of subsidies, training, and other support to help people with significant disabilities get work. By taking part in the Programme, employers are tapping into the benefits of employing someone with a disability and future-proofing their workforce.

It's a four-way partnership among Work and Income, supported employment agents (disability employment experts), employers, and people with disabilities. The specially-created positions are tailored to the skills and aptitude of the participants, and the needs of the employers. Participants are not expected to be 'job-ready' when they start. They are trained on the job and have access to extra training funding from Mainstream. Pay is comparable to the pay of others performing similar duties. Knowledge and skills are built up over time, with the support and goodwill of co-workers.

MINISTRY OF EDUCATION

Te Tāhuhu o te Mātauranga

Learning Support is a service that can provide support to students with additional learning needs within educational settings.

Learning support is able to provide advice and information around transition for students leaving education and moving to community based settings. Although this is usually for students on the Ongoing Resourcing Scheme (ORS), support may also be provided for other students who experience additional challenges around transition because of their learning needs.

The aim is to enable a smooth transition by promoting collaboration between the student, family/whanau and school team. Individual Education Plan (IEP) meetings or other pathway planning meetings, which are coordinated by the school team, will provide an opportunity for discussions around transition for the student. There will be an increased focus on transition as the student progresses through the school. Most schools have a teacher who has a role to support transition and is able to assist families to access information about services that are available.

www.education.govt.nz has information for family/whanau around transition including the National Transition Guidelines.

<https://education.govt.nz/school/student-support/special-education/national-transition-guidelines-for-students-with-special-education-needs/> A booklet titled Preparing to Leave School is also available through our local offices.

The Nationwide Health & Disability Advocacy Service is a free, confidential and independent service, provided under the Health and Disability Commissioner's Act 1994.

Advocates assist consumers who have concerns about a health or disability service they have received. Advocates provide information and support to enable consumers to resolve concerns direct with the provider where appropriate and to achieve low level resolution. The concept is not new and people who have used the service find that just having someone to guide them through the process is of great assistance. We have found that many people just need to be pointed in the right direction to resolve their complaint while others require moral support at meetings or assistance with putting their thoughts onto paper. Advocates, in many cases come from health or disability backgrounds and know how the systems work.

In addition to advocacy, Advocates provide education to provider and consumer groups about the Code of Health & Disability Services Consumers' Rights, the Health & Disability Commissioner's office and the role of advocacy. If you are a consumer or provider who would like to know more about the Code or the work of the advocacy service, please feel free to contact us.

People with disabilities, like everyone else, wish to live as normally as possible in the privacy of their own homes where they can plan their lives and make their own decisions.

The Ryder-Cheshire Foundation Manawatu is an established residential complex in Palmerston North where physical care is provided but does not dominate daily living, rather it provides people with the support they need to play a part in their community.

The complex is situated in a well developed residential area, with easy access to suburban shops, bus route and other amenities. There are nine specially designed houses on the complex for residents with a variety of physical disabilities - both congenital and those resulting from traumatic brain injury. We are able to provide care for a range of levels - from highly dependent to those who are able to live in a flatting situation where with daily staff supervision and/or assistance they can prepare for the day when they might become independent and choose to live elsewhere in the community. There is also provision for short stays, for respite care.

Workbridge Palmerston North also covers Feilding.

Established in 1991, Workbridge is a professional employment service for people with all types of disability, including people who have lived with the long-term effects of injury and illness.

Workbridge also administers Support Funds on behalf of the Ministry of Social Development. This fund can help with any additional costs directly relating to a person's disability when gaining or retaining a job, entering training, or commencing self-employment.

Workbridge employment consultants work in partnership with you to: find out what you want to do; set work goals and plan how to reach them; prepare a current curriculum vitae (CV); learn job search skills, how to apply for jobs, and interview skills.

To be eligible a Workbridge job seeker will: have been living with the effects of their disability, injury or illness for more than six months; be currently living in New Zealand, and be a New Zealand citizen, a permanent resident, or hold an appropriate open work permit, and be aged between 16 and 65 years.

Once you are in a job, we will keep in contact with you to make sure that everything is going well.

Checklists

Fill out the following to see if you have left anything out of your planning.

TICK	Things to think about if you are thinking about moving out of home
	Contact your local NASC or ACC when you start to consider leaving home to discuss options for support in the community (do this as early as possible as processes can take some time).
	Consider where you are going to live in relation to your transport needs, e.g. availability of Total Mobility Taxi's, public transport services such as buses and trains, getting to and from work.
	Consider if you are going to live alone or with others and who they may be.
	Contact a NASC agency to discuss support for finding flatmates.
	Contact a NASC agency to discuss support and advice on gaining good community access.
	If you think you might need 24hr support talk to your local NASC or ACC about disability residential options and how you may transition out of home.
	Consider what you are going to do during the day? (work, leisure, education, social options etc.)
	Consider options for increasing your self help skills both prior to and oncaftere you move out (learning is a life time process).
	Contact HNZ, or real estate agents around finding an accessible home.
	Contact HNZ around "income related rentals" if you are unable to work.

Checklist continued

	Talk with Work and Income to ensure that you have all the benefits you are eligible for, for example, accommodation allowance, disability allowance, special benefit, etc.
	Contact your GP, NASC, ACC, or HNZ around specialist input for modifications to existing homes to make them accessible.
	Consider who are the natural networks such as, family, friends, neighbours who can help support you to live as independently as possible.
	Consider your own budgeting skills and look at getting support with this if you have the need.
	Consider a 0900 toll bar on phone to avoid unnecessary costs on your telephone bill.
	Talk to Work and Income, your local NASC, GP about all the options for Home Alone alarms as there are many different options and prices.
	If you are a teenager or young adult still at home, have you and your parents considered your ability and confidence to be at home alone? You may like to start trying this in a planned way (We acknowledge that this may not be appropriate for everyone).

TICK	Things to think about when preparing to leave school.
	Have you done any planning for your future that sets clear goals for where you want to be, and breaking them down into smaller steps or goals?
	Think about how you get around your own community now and how you will in the future. You may need support to develop new skills to access public transport, or obtain a drivers licence.
	Have you had an opportunity for work skills development and to gain work place experiences?
	Consider your numeracy and literacy skills, what support and on-going education you will need
	Identify key people for areas you may need support with. For example, filling in forms, legal documentation and disclosure of your personal information
	Have you talked to the school's career or guidance counsellor about developing a career plan?
	Consider your skills that will help assist living as independently as possible, e.g., cooking, housework, budgeting...
	Don't be afraid to take a risk in trying new things, it is okay to make mistakes, it is how everyone learns
	Think of ways you can keep in contact with the friends you have at school when you leave
	Look at joining sports groups, clubs, activity groups, church or youth groups which will give you lots to do after you leave school
	Do you have an IRD number? Get one.
	Do have an 18+ card? Get one.
	Are you developing skills that will help you maintain your safety with adult relationships?
